The order comprised the delivery and installation of a total of 600 doors, which were manufactured in 40 different door types.

About the project

Particular attention was paid to the fabrication and protection of the doors: the edge protection was made of high-quality high-grade steel, which not only ensured the durability of the doors, but also gave them an elegant, modern look. In addition, sliding doors with a continuous fitting were integrated, ensuring a particularly stable and functional version that met the highest optical and technical standards.
